Orientation for the New School Year - posted 07/12/07

Make the time to attend orientation with your child for the new school year. It's a great opportunity to get to know some of the people who will be a part of your child's life for the new school year. Many parents and family members believe that if their child isn't actually changing schools, there's no need to attend orientation. On the contrary! Each new school year brings new teachers and new expectations!

Take the time to review our Transitions page for some helpful hints on moving on into the new school year. We're collecting "Helpful Hints from Hoover's Families" to aid our community in starting the new school year. If you have Hints to add, please e-mail us at HSCIN@HSCIN.org. We'll compile these results and post them as they come in!
